REFORM.

The old maxim, "let well enough alone" is sound doctrine at the present time. There is certainly room for improvement in the Republican party, but it must be brought about by the party itself, for any attempt outside of its ranks must work more evil than good. A little more care in the selection of civil officers, a little more watchfulness in keeping dishonest hands out of the public treasury, and a little more snap in weeding out the disloyal from office and in the appointment of loyal men to positions of trust and power, and our party will be the best party that the world ever acknowledged.

Its past record is above criticism. It has represented through its acts, the wisdom and patriotism of the loyal citizens of America, and it may well challenge the world to point out a single public measure endorsed by its statesman, that has not advanced the civilization of the ages. It has been, and is now, the laboring man's party. It has done more for labor in ten years, than the Democratic Party has done since the formation of the government. The hopes of the nation are centered in its existence. Its defeat would be a public calamity, a calamity that would overwhelm labor, and set back substantial reform at least a century.

THE FIRST GUN.

The first gun of the campaign has been fired, and from the extreme outpost in New Hampshire the rolling echoes of victory, are heard throughout the land. The croakers of the Republican party must now change their tune. The good old party faced the labor reformers, the liberal republicans, the tectotalers, and the solid ranks of the Democracy, and it has swept everything before it. The opposition isms, are in full retreat, and those that were not killed outright by the explosion of the 12 inst, are likely to be trampled to death in their frantic efforts to get out of the reach of the next shot. All hail! to Granite-ribbed New Hampshire. Her political sentiments, like her enduring mountain, cannot be changed by the senseless clamor of a few sore heads, or the rebel yell of the Democratic party. The loyal millions of this great nation, salute her with pride! True to the Republic when the tempest of war swept over it, she is still true to its best interests in time of peace. May her service of victory be the key note of the campaign, cheering the despondent, and giving new life to the hearts that are to battle for the old Republican flag, from now until November next. Once more we shout—All Hail to New Hampshire!

BRUTALITY AND DEPRAVITY.

The majority and minority reports of the committee on Ku-Klux outrages, recently submitted to Congress, disclose two prominent features that cannot fail to impress themselves on the popular mind, viz: the fiendish brutality of a portion of the Southern Democracy, and the almost total depravity of those of the north. Their brutality is already established by the majority report, in the number of murders and outrages perpetrated by them; and their depravity by their efforts to conceal and palliate the crimes of their southern brethren.

Both these reports together, indicate the fearful moral condition of the leaders of modern Democracy, and cannot fail to astonish and mortify mankind generally at the depth of infamy reached by this once powerful and respectable party.

More than forty years have elapsed since Johnson's Anodyne Liniment was first invented, during which time hundreds of thousands have been benefitted by its use. Probably no article ever became so universally popular with all classes as Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

Pills which contain antimony, quinine and calomel, should be avoided, as severe griping pains would be their only result. The safest, surest, and best pills are Parsons' Purgative or Anti Bilious Pills.

Don't forget the Grand Army of the Republic this evening.

PARTY DISPUTES.

Quarrelling in the face of the enemy, is very unprofitable. It can do no good, it may do infinite harm. Time spent in denouncing men, because they differ from us on certain public measures, is more than wasted. Before the Philadelphia Convention meets, we should exercise the largest charity for the opinions of others. Independent men will think, will talk, will oppose. They have a right to do so, and though we may not agree with them, we have no right to denounce them, for doing what we would do, were we so inclined. Hasty judgment, and cruel denunciation, have driven many a true man from active service. We have enough to do to fight against our ancient foes, without wasting our strength on those who ought to be, and may be, our political friends. When the convention selects the standard-bearer for the campaign, and the old party flag is run up to the mast-head, and our former friends refuse to fight under its folds, then it will be time enough to open our batteries of wrath on their heads, and drive them out of our camp into the ranks of the enemy. We cannot afford to quarrel, until we know our quarrel is just. We need every man in November next, and if we are to beat the Democracy we must be united. The question to be determined, is not so much, who is the best Republican, but who is willing to assist in defeating the Democrats. The struggle is to be between the Democratic and the Republican parties. Every man we drive out of the party is equal to two recruits for the Democrats. It takes one from our strength, and adds one to our enemy. If we know of any good grounds for dissatisfaction in our party, let us do all we can in reason to furnish a remedy. Harsh words ought not to be indulged in, until the name of our leader is known. If it shall be the name of Grant, we expect every Republican to fall into line. Personal feelings must be forgotten until the victory is won; the battle is over, the triumph ours, we can then afford to again differ among ourselves.

CHANGING THE STATE CAPITOL.

Philadelphia is again asking that the State Capitol be changed to that City. We think such action all wrong. If the Capitol must be changed, Bellefonte is the place to which it should come. 1st Because Hon. Peter G. Meek resides here and by this change he would not be necessitated to the perils of the rail in getting home every Friday. 2nd Bellefonte is the Geographical centre of the State, and Meek resides here, and 3rd it should be brought to Bellefonte because Hon. P. G. Meek resides here and owns a Brick House with a Hall in it. He no doubt anticipated this change when he erected his splendid Brick building. And 4th it should be brought to Bellefonte because Meek resides here and if the change is not made, he might refuse to serve his Constituents another term in the Legislature, and this would prevent the people—the farmers of Pennsvally—from obtaining the necessary legislation to complete their Rail road. And 5th it should be changed to Bellefonte, because Meek resides here, and if it is not done he might become angry and under some slight pretext mortgage all the lands in Pennsvally. And 6th it should be moved to Bellefonte because Meek resides here, and Sam Josephs could as easily come from Philadelphia here, as Meek could go from Bellefonte to Philadelphia; provided the said Sam Josephs would not bring with him the "spotted" or any other fever.

By all means then let us have the Capitol removed to Bellefonte. "Fiat Justitia ruat Cœlum."

Shot.—A dispatch dated March 25, from Wilmington, N. C., gives a rumor that the Lowery Gang of Ku-Klux have shot the captured Herald correspondent This correspondent, we understand to be A. Boyd Henderson, of Lock Haven, formerly a resident of this place. We are informed, at least, that "Boyd" went South on a mission of this kind. We hope the rumor is false; but whether it be Mr. Henderson or some other correspondent that was shot it should cause the Watchman and other copperhead sheets to cease denying the existance and defending the wicked actions of the Ku Klux Klan.

Bank-Building.—The 1st National Bank owners, have purchased the corner lot of the burned district, and intend to erect thereon a magnificent Building with white sand stone front We have seen the plan, but at present, will not attempt a description. We suppose the work will be commenced in a few weeks. E. C. Humes, Esq., we believe is the leading spirit in this enterprise.

CARL SCHURZ vs OUR COUNTRY.

It is a debatable question whether disgust, contempt, or pity is the strongest feeling in the breast of all fair minded men when contemplating the speeches and attitude of Carl Schurz during the recent debates in the Senate. It adds unusual significance to the recent correspondence of the New York Herald from Berlin, in which he is reported to have expressed his admiration of a monarchical form of government, and boasted that he carried the German vote of the United States in his breeches pocket. That Senator Schurz, a professed Republican would make such extraordinary assertions to a nabob of nobility is almost beyond the pale of reason, yet the story is well attested and may, to some extent, account for his singular conduct in Missouri, and also in the Senate. It does seem as if he was using his utmost endeavors to disgrace the American Government at home and abroad, and his venom and intrigue have carried him so far beyond the bounds of propriety, that the German press of this country, including even the Democratic portion of it, denounce his course in the strongest possible language.

For weeks he occupied the time and attention of the U. S. Senate with his glittering generalities and rounded periods, to the exclusion of its legitimate business, and to the intense delight and gratification of all the great and small rebels in the land. These rebels look upon him as their great deliverer, their political Moses, who will lead them again into the land of honor and office, where, as in days of old they will rule as kings and Princes, plunder the public coffers, with no investigating committees to interfere with them until the credit of our country is reduced as in the last days of Buchanan—when the government was obliged to pay 12 per cent per annum to secure a small loan.

At present the "grim Grant" stands between them and the coveted prize, and of all the citizens of our country, they fear and hate none more than he. He has dealt them their heaviest blows and holds them with a strong arm. Thieves, defaulters, and Ku-Klux are brought to justice, and as long as General Grant holds the reins of Government, honesty, economy, equal rights, and just dealings to all, will be the code of the country.

Senators Morton, Conkling, Frelinghuysen, Wilson and others have completely unmasked the wicked designs of the Missouri Senator, and the investigation ordered will add great strength to the Administration of General Grant and the Republican party. These causeless charges will all be thoroughly exposed and exploded long before the Presidential campaign opens, and our worthy President will continue to rise in popular favor, as is clearly indicated by reports from all parts of the country.

So far not a single point has been made against him, and the people will take this matter into their hands and sustain the President,—and not only that, but they will thank him most heartily for his coarse in ignoring the proffered counsels of political antiquarians and self constituted seers and leaders of the Republican party.

For the Republican.

LET JUSTICE BE DONE.

Mr. Editor:—Being present on last Wednesday at the investigation of the young men, who were arraigned before his honor, Judge Dopp, under the serious charge of being implicated in the originating of the recent fires in our town, by your permission I will here refer more particularly to the unprincipalled and ungentlemanly conduct of the District Attorney. I am not a lawyer, nor would I desire to be one, unless I were a competent counsellor. I noticed, as well as others, with regret, that when Mr. Fortney was delivering his speech in behalf of the defence, the said Commonwealth officer was a considerable portion of his time engaged in calling the attention of his honor, (the Judge) to some facts that he had recorded on a scrap of paper; thus diverting the attention of his honor from the telling speech delivered by Mr. Fortney. I do not feel like finding fault on the part of the Judge, as he was but recently elected to that honorable and trustworthy position; but cannot refrain from asserting that I think the counsel in behalf of the defence was treated in a most disrespectful and contemptible manner, moreover, would assert that the writer of this article is in no way or manner interested, and, as a citizen, demands only justice and fair play. If the young men who were arraigned before his Honor, are guilty, it is my sincere desire to see them punished to the fullest extent of the law; but do dislike to see justice trifled with in as intelligent a community as ours. Our Courts should not be conducted in similarity to a debating society. Justice should prevail, though the Heavens fall.

Justice.

A TRUCE TO SCANDAL!

[From the State Journal 22nd inst.]

It is now some months since it became evident that the sentiment of the Republican party in Pennsylvania was chrystalizing upon John F. Hartranft as the next Governor of the Commonwealth. So unmistakable were the indications that the contest before the people was practically abandoned by his competitors, who were getting ready to acquiesce gracefully in the result. Within a few days, a last desperate attempt has been made to break his strength and make his nomination impossible. It had its inspiration in the Evans swindle. Its prime agents were the bondsmen and partners of the defaulting refugee. Its principal instruments were foreign newspapers whose admitted interest and aim are the destruction, not of Hartranft, but of the Republican party. It has been greedily grasped in Pennsylvania by rival candidates, and the press in their interest, and by the opposition to General Grant, whose well-known relations to Hartranft were supposed to indentify the administration with the candidacy of the latter. The people of the State were of a sudden staggered by the announcement that their chief financial officer was little better than a common felon. The details of his villainy were published with the most plausible particularity. If the mine had been exploded a week or two later, its effects might have been disastrous, and Hartranft might have been driven with a tainted reputation from before the convention. As it is the engineers have been hoisted with their own petard. The combination of thieves, disorganizers and ambitious politicians is shattered, and their manœuvres have only strengthened the man they were intended to destroy. It is probable that only the Evans gang were aware of the utter falsity of these charges. The opposition to Hartranft and Grant accepted and used the material as it was offered them; it was not their interest to inquire farther.

We need not go into the tedious details of this Evans' business. The defalcation is notorious, and the people of the State are familiar with the steps taken by their accounting officers for the protection of their interests. The legal proceedings are still pending, and Mr. Payne, president of a medical college of Philadelphia, the franchises of which were forfeited a few days ago because its president had habitually made merchandise of its degrees, is one of the sureties of Evans. Pending the litigation a committee of the Legislature has been raised and has been for some time laboring to get at the actual history of the collection of the war claims. Gen. Hartranft, Mr. Mackey and others were brought before the committee at an early day, and favored it with all the information in their possession.

The legal proceedings have been delayed and the investigation baffled by Evans and his friends at every step. Evans himself fled from the process of the committee—and immediately succeeding his departure to New York came a burst of scandal form the New York Tribune and the New York Sun. The latter charged specifically that the missing funds of the Commonwealth were in the hands of the very men who had been most active in unearthing the villainy and pressing Evans to a settlement—and forgery and perjury were both brought into request to give the statement a semblance of verity. Ordinary business transactions of Hartranft and Mackey were perverted into grave violations of law, and speculations in the trust funds which should have been sacred in the keeping of the latter.—These charges were promptly taken up by newspapers in this State in the interests already mentioned, with the tender suggestion that whether true or not, their publicity was fatal to Hartranft's availability, and that the Republican party of Pennsylvania should mould its nominations to suit the anonymous scribblers of the Tribune and Sun. The Legislature very properly committed to the Evans committee an inquiry into the truth or falsity of the charges. It has resulted in the complete vindication of the parties implicated. Payne himself testified before the committee that the resolutions which were the foundation of the Tribune articles, were prepared to embarrass the Evans investigation. Stroup testified that the articles were published to damage political interests supposed to be friendly to Hartranft; and on Wednesday evening this exposure culminated in an examination of Hartranft, Mackey, the author of the Sun articles, and others, which traced these charges home to their paternity, and demonstrated their complete falsity. It results that bribes, in sums of tens of thousands, have been offered by Payne and his friends—that threats of official detraction and slander have been freely used without swerving the officers of the Commonwealth from the strict line of duty, and that the recent outrageous libels have been published at the dictation of Payne, and of Payne only, for the purpose of annoying and embarrassing the pursuit which he could not escape, and of levying blackmail upon the persons attacked Beyond this its result has been to fix the character of this fellow as one of the most reckless perjurers and daring villains of the day. Every item of the specification against Hartranft has been promptly met and disproved, and there is an end of the calumny. It is a matter of congratulation that, by a combination of fortuitous circumstances, this result became possible. His enemies reversed a rule of the common law which holds a man innocent until he is proven guilty, and demanded that he should establish his innocence; accident has enabled him to do so.

If the Republican party is to win or deserve success at the coming election, it is full time that the scandalous warfare within its own columns should cease. Newspaper calumnies coined, or given currency to affect a nomination will return before the election to plague the inventers. They are just so much ammunition manufactured and stored away for use on the day of decisive battle by the common enemy. The candidates named for the high offices, which are in effect in the gift of our State convention, are all gentlemen who in official and private life have held and deserved the public confidence. With any of them success is easy, unless success is made difficult by personal jealousies and bickerings, and the glib lies of the interested scandal-monger. Let the Republican press preserve its dignity and labor to strengthen the organization and to insure a cordial support to our nominees, whomsoever they may be. Then with ordinary prudence in the deliberations of our convention, we can approach the October election with full confidence of a decisive victory.

RAILROAD BILL—STUPID ABSURDITY.

The bill, as it passed the House last week, allowing our railroad company to issue bonds to the amount of 3½ million dollars, with the proviso that stockholders shall receive mortgage bonds upon the road, for the stock paid in by them, is impracticable, and the stupidest piece of absurdity in legislation that we have yet heard of. The effect of this proviso is nothing more than to defeat the objects of the bill, and put a stop to the road. Before explaining this stupid proviso, we here copy the bill entire as it was passed in the house, and if not stricken off by a conference committee, (the senate having at once hooted at the absurdity), the road is killed, and the money already spent, is lost. There is a desire, among a certain class across the mountain, to prevent Pennsvalley from having a railroad, and keep us in our isolated position, and this feeling has a miserable tool in the legislature, (Here Fred means Hon. P. G. Meek) that has placed every obstacle in the way of our road, which, unfortunately for our people, his position enabled him to command. We regret that there are always such among us, who will permit themselves to be thus humbugged and deceived to the shame and injury of our valley, and make us the laughing stock for outsiders.

The bill:

Section 1. Be it enacted That it shall be lawful for the Lewisburg, Centre and Spruce Creek railroad company to create, issue and dispose of, from time to time, on such terms and conditions as to the board of directors may seem proper, bonds for an amount not exceeding three and a half millions of dollars, for the purpose of completing and equiping said railroad, payable at such period or periods of time as they may appoint, with coupons attached or otherwise bearing interest at a rate not exceeding seven per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, with or without provisions for the payment by the company of any or all taxes on the principal or interest thereof, and to secure the said bonds by one or more mortgages of the whole or any portion of the said railroad estate, real or personal corporate rights and franchises acquired or that may hereafter be acquired by said company.

Provided, That no bond shall issue for a less denomination than fifty dollars. Provided further, That any subscriber to the capital stock of the company may if he shall so elect, receive the mortgage bonds hereby authorized to be issued in lieu of certificates of stock, and the directors are hereby required to issue bonds to the subscribers aforesaid; when such election shall have been made and the money paid by such subscriber, the bonds to be issued shall be taken at par by the subscribers to the stock and shall not bear interest in the hands of any holder until at least twenty miles of the said railroad shall be fully completed and in operation.

Section 2 That any mortgages executed and delivered under authority of this act, being recorded in the office for recording of mortgages in the counties of Union and Centre, shall thereupon be a lien on all the property mortgaged, where-ever situated, as in each of the several counties in which the mortgage premises or any part thereof are or may be situated.

Section 3. That the first and second sections of the supplement approved April fifteenth, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred, and seventy-one to the act incorporating said railroad company be and the same are hereby repealed.

We have been too long identified—and so expect to remain—with the interests of this valley, not to raise our warning voice against the dastardly attempts to prevent its improvements, and hence we publish our views of this bill:

1st. The stockholders in a company, are the company, and stand as an individual. Now imagine such individual holding a mortgage in his own power against his own property, and then asking to raise money upon said property by the sale of other mortgage bonds against said property, and such bonds not to be preferred against a mortgage held by himself on his own property!

2nd. What individual ever engaged in the sale of property in that way?

3rd. What railroad was ever built upon this novel plan?

4th. Our people having paid their subscriptions and receiving mortgage bonds instead of the customary certificates of stock, who will be fool enough to buy the balance of the bonds, and what would outside purchasers of bonds have to fall back upon, the work already being encumbered by the stockholders' mortgages?

5th. As nobody will buy these bonds under such conditions, the money cannot be raised to complete the road, and hence the work will be abandoned, and the amount already spent by the people of Pennsvalley, will have been spent for nothing, thus swamping the stock and killing the road to boot.

6th. The proviso, instead of putting the stockholder's bonds on equal footing with bonds held by non-stockholders, makes us accept them at par, while outside parties may buy them at 40 or 50 cents on the dollar, taking it for granted that this nonsensical proviso were practicable.

7th. Stockholder's mortgages don't draw interest, by this absurd proviso, until twenty miles of the road are in running order, while outside parties can purchase the balance of the bonds at a great discount, and draw interest from date.

8th. As stockholders our people have a voice in the elections and government of the road; if they change and become bondholders, then all the rights and privileges as stockholders are forfeited, of course. Are our people prepared for this?

The Senate having disagreed to this absurdity, tacked to the bill in the house, we hope the conference committee will also do the same, and that our people, who have thus far, in good faith, paid their subscriptions, will not have the mortification of seeing the road killed, and their money thrown away, by the conspiracy that bred this proviso.

O Lord, what legislation! are the fools not all dead yet, or has demagogueism the sway? We now would not object to "ventilating" the insane asylum a little even at a cost of $50,000, for we are sure, that by giving some of its idiotic a little fresh air, and putting them in the legislature, they would be quite an improvement upon some who are trying to legislate for the people. (Here again Fred makes strong allusion to Hon Peter G. Meek).

If the Penn'a R. R. Comp, is magnanimous enough to accept the bill in this shape, and under it raise the money to complete the road, and besides make our people secure in their investment, we shall rejoice exceedingly, and it would leave a big opening to take back a great many hard things said against it.

"WORDS AND THEIR USES."

BY A MYSTIFIED QUAKER.

NEW YORK, 12th Month, 20th, 1871.

Respected Wife—From the-e few lines my wher abouts thee'll learn,
Moreover I impart to thee my serious concern;
The language of this people i- a riddle unto me,
And words with them are figments of reckless mockery!

For instance, as I left the cars, an imp, with smutty face,
Said, "Shine?" "Nay, I'll not shine.' I said,
"except with inward grace!"
"Is 'inward grace' a liquor or paste?" asked this young Turk!
"Hi, daddy! what is inward grace? How does the old thing work?"

"Friend," said I to John, whose breath suggested gin
"Can t ee convey me straightway to a respectable inn?"
His answer's gross irrelevance I shall not soon to get—
Instead of a simple yea or nay, he gruffly said, "You bet!"

"Nay, nay, I shall not bet," said I, "for that would be a sin—
Why don't thee answer plainly. Can thee take me to an inn?"
Thy vehicle is doubtless meant to carry folks about in;
Then why prevaricate?" Sa d he perversely, "Now yer shoutin'!"

"Nay, verily, I shouted not!" quoth I; "my speech is mild;
But this e—I grieve to say it—with falsehood is defiled.
Thee ought to be admonished to rid thy heart of guile."
"See here, my lively moke!" said he, "you sling on too much style!"

"I've had these plain drab garments twenty years and more," said I,
"And when thee says I 'sling on style,' thee tells a willful lie!"
At that he pranced around as if a bee was in his bonnet,
And with hostile demonstration inquired if I was "on it!"

"On what? Till thee explain thyself, I cannot tell." I said;
He swore that something was "too thin"—moreover it was "played."
But all his jargon was surpassed in wild absurdity,
By threats, profanely emphasized, to "put a head on me!"

"No son of Belial, said I, "that miracle can do!"
Wherat he fell upon me with blows, and curses, too,
But failed to work that miracle—if such was his design—
Instead of putting on a head, he strove to smite off mine!

Thee knows I cultivate the peaceful habit of our sect,
But this man's conduct wrought on me a singular effect:
For when he slapped my broad-brim off, and asked, "How's that for high?"
It roused the Adam in me, and I smote him hip and thigh?

The throng then gave a specimen of calumny broke loose,
And said I'd "snatched him bald-headed," and likewise "cooked his goose;"
Although I solemnly affirm I did not pull his hair,
Nor did I cook his poultry—for he had no poultry there!

They called me "Bully, boy!" although I've seen eigh three-score year;
And said that I was lightning when I "got up on my ear!"
And when I asked if lightning climbed his ear, or dressed in drab,
"You know how't is yourself!" said one in consequential blab.

Thee can perceive, that by this time, I was somewhat perplexed;
Yea the plaid spirit in me has seldom been so vexed.
I tarried there no longer, for plain spoken men
—like me—
With such perverters of our tongue can have no unity.

A Just Tribute.

GRANT AND HIS ADMINISTRATION.

Senator Wilson spoke as follows at a recent meeting at Great Falls, N. H.:

There has been collected, under Gen. Grant's Administration, in three years, nearly $1,200,000,000—nearly $400,000,000 a year; there has been paid out nearly $1 250,000—less than a fifteenth part of one per cent! Look at the Postoffice Department. With 45,000 postmasters, clerks and mail carriers, the loss has been less than one-tenth of one per cent. in these three years. In no part of the world has such integrity been shown, under like circumstances. We have paid out during these three years, $90,000,000 in pensions, and we have had five defalcations, all of them soldiers, and four of them shed their blood for the country. But the Government has not lost a dollar, for the agents made good their accounts, or their bondsmen did it for them.

WHAT HORACE GREELEY CALLS A "BAD RECORD."

This Administration came into power with the pledge to maintain the faith and honor of the country then wickedly assailed. During these last thirty-five months there has been paid $287,000,000, nearly saving $18,009,000 a year in interest. This money has been mostly saved on one hand by an honest collection of the revenues—for we collected the first fifteen months of Grant's administration, $67 000,000 more than was collected under the last fifteen months of Johnson's administration—and on the other hand, by a reduction of the expenses of the Government. From these two sources we have paid this $287,000,000. Throughout the financial world it is a matter of wonder and amazement that the financial policy of the United States should be so successful. We elected General Grant, pledged to maintain the faith of the nation, to make our debt sacred, and what is the result? Why, the seven hundred millions of currency is worth to-day a hundred and forty millions of dollars, twenty per cent. more than it was three years ago. The laboring man who has earned two dollars to-day has received forty cents in real gold value more than he would have received three years a go this day. There has been added twenty per cent. to every dollar the laboring men of this country has earned, and it has been added because of the signal fidelity and ability with which that pledge has been kept, to maintain the faith of the nation, honestly collect the revenues, reduce expenses and extinguish the national debt as fast as he could.

A BRIEF SKETCH OF THE PRESIDENT.

To hear these men talk you would suppose Gen. Grant was vastly inferior to such great magnificent statesmen as Polk, Pierce and Buchanan. What is General Grant—this man so denounced? When the war opened he was earning a few hundred dollars a year tanning leather in Galena. He offered his services to the nation, and they were not accepted. He went down to Springfield, and served there for some weeks, helping to enroll and organize the regiments they were raising in Illinois. Finally they gave him a regiment. He had not money enough to buy a sword with which to fight the battles of his country, nor a horse to ride. You did not hear anything about him; the nation knew nothing about him; few had heard of him. He had served in the Mexican Point, and won two bravets for gallant conduct, but nobody knew anything of this humble man. He took his regiment and marched away. He never asked anything of the Government; he never made any complaint. He went straight forward and did his duty, a quiet, silent, modest man. About the first thing we heard of him was that he took about twenty-five thousand men up the Tennessee river, moved on the enemy's work, attacked an army of twenty thousand rebels, and captured fifteen thousand of them. You next heard of him coming on the field of Shiloh, when it was nearly lost, and when they asked him if he had prepared for a retreat he said that one boat would take all that retreated. He defeated the rebel army that had been nearly victorious. Then he went down the Mississippi river, passed Vicksburg, made a movement into the country, attacked the rebel armies, captured Vicksburg, and then you find him at Chattanooga, to save a lost battle, and you have heard of the magnificent victory he won at Mission Ridge and Lookout Mountain. He was then brought to Washington, and took command of the armies of the country, led the army of the Potomac through the Wilderness, fighting every day in the month of May, 1864 put his army before Richmond, and when the hour came, moved upon the doomed city and received the surrender of the rebel army at Appomattox. Nineteen battles behind him, and all victories! He did not march his army to make a parade through the rebel capital, but started off alone with his carpet-bag in hand for Washington, to stop the raising of troops and the manufacture of ammunitions, to make preparations to disband the army and save expense, and to save, what he regarded, and what we all regarded as a very important thing, a general bankruptcy in the country.

OBLOQUY AND REPROACH THE REWARD OF A FAITHFUL PUBLIC SERVANT.

We turned to this man when Andrew Johnson failed us, and asked him to be President. He didn't seek the Presidency; he felt and said that his place at the head of the army was the post for him. We made him President, and it was his strength and commanding influence that carried the Fourteenth Amendment. That same influence carried the Fifteenth Amendment, and gave the black man the right to vote in all the States. The men who stood by the cause of anti-slavery and the protection of the black man have found in General Grant a man who has stood bravely, steadily and consistently on the side of freedom and the equal rights of all men. He has been President three years, followed by obloquy and reproach. He has made some mistakes in appointments, no doubt; but the leading measures of the administration are in the interest of the country. The masses of the people who have no grievances, who only want good government, see it, feel it, realize it. They believe we have the best administration this nation has seen for forty years; and they are right in this conviction. The Republicans of the country are looking to you, men of New Hampshire, to recover your State.

ANOTHER Tammany, another voucher robbery. This time the little Democratic stronghold of York—a district where a majority of the people are so ignorant, as to elect a free-trader to Congress, and, for aught we know, to vote annually for Andrew Jackson—is the scene of action. Many of our readers will remember our exposure last fall of the frauds of the York county commissioners, by which more than three hundred thousand dollars had been stolen. The Legislature recently passed a bill authorizing a board of honest men to audit the accounts of these officials. Knavery being contagious, they have availed themselves of the Tammany example, and stolen and destroyed the vouchers which were the evidences of their crime. This appears to be an era of detection as well as of theft. Officials may connive and plunder, but they are also caught and punished What has happened in York may occur in any other Democratic county in the State. There is a rottenness running all through governmental affairs, but we are gradually sifting to the bottom of it. The brightest feature of it all is that we are getting rid of corruption in the present and providing against a rule of licentiousness and crime in the future.—Phila Press

M Quad Tries to Write an Address.

Somehow, whenever I am in this month of the year, it always devolves upon me to write a carrier's address for New Years's day. It dosen't do any good for me to contend that I am no poet, or that I have a hard cold—it always comes to me as regularly as the day swings round. I'm down for it this year, and have been trying and failing ever since July. Some way I can't collect myself; I get hold of a good idea, and then have to drop it for want of a word that will rhyme. I want to oblige the boys, and they depend on me; and so I have thought best to call for outside assistance. I will show how far I have progressed, and state what I want. I have several addresses on hand, all incomplete, but none of them are in the usual style. I thought it would be as well to make a little healthy change. The first starts off with:

Hark! to the tones of the joyous bell—
I am a bold carrier boy;
I want to be an angle and so forth!
Wish you a Happy New Year's!

I wrote this feeling that I had made a great hit, but I no sooner submitted it than I was told that no such address would be published. They said it didn't rhyme. It was the first time I ever heard that any of my poetry was expected to rhyme, and the insinuation rather hurt my feelings. "Get something more powerful," said he "something that will touch the heart at once." I ground away seven days, and carried in the following:

I want to hold an office,
No matter under which Party I do hold it
So that I ——

Right here I got stuck. I couldn't find any word to rhyme with "which" that would fit in, and so I submitted it, believing that another head might supply the deficiency. He said it wouldn't do—wasn't according to instructions. I supposed that an office would "touch the public heart" about as powerfully as anything could, but had to be peaceable while he threw the pages under the table. "Get something more appropriate to the day," he said, "something about the hopes of the coming year." So I went back, the thermometer way up to ninety, and brought out the best thing I had yet written:

Pile high the turkeys on the table,
And all the mince pies you are able,
And hop as high as any gable,
Do-ra me is-sol-do.

"You see," said he, as I triumphantly carried it in, "this is incomplete; you have got three lines that rhyme, and one that clashes. You make a sudden break on the fourth line that destroys the whole continuity of the verse." I offered to make the last end with "stable" or "cable," but we worked half a day without getting in the words to suit, and then he told me try again, said that "I had it in me," and he was bound to develop my genius if the address didn't come out for five years. I got twenty-four sheets of foolscap, a dozen lead pencils, and sent word to the children that I wouldn't be home for a week. Three days after I entered the sanctum with the dignified air b fitting a triumph, and exhibited the following:

Ring out, oh! bells your happy peals,
Another year has dawned;
And Father Time has spared us yet
And my overcoat is pawned.

"This won't—" He was going to say that it wouldn't do, but I stopped him and asked him to read the next verse:

Now let us gather round the board,
And commence to work the jaw;
And weep for her beneath the sod—
My own loved mother-in-law.

"That'll do," said he, after finishing, "you needn't worry any more about this business. I took you for a genius, with a fount of lofty inspiration at your command, but I see that I have been basely deceived. Consider yourself disch—" I asked him to hold on a minute, told him that I had just been flinging myself around the business a little, just as a hen turns around before seating herself. If he would give me a week more I would agree to bring him out something with a vein of richness permeating and perforating it from end to end. He reluctantly consented, and now I have got to have some help. I have got as far as this and I want to back out of the whole verse or get the right word:

Pile high the gable on the table,
And my mother-in-law, if you are able
Ring out my overcoat, ye bells,
And—and—"

"Now, here's where I want the word. If I can just finish this one verse and the rest of the address will come along without any trouble. The boys depend on me, and my reputation is at stake.

AN exchange says: "Mr. Greeley on his farm, keeps a running account with hens, double entry. When a hen lays an egg she runs around the bases, and when she strikes the home base, where the book-keeper is located, she sings out, 'Tally one,' or 'Tally two,' as the case may be, because some of them are repeaters, and the book-keeper gives her credit, and charges her for her meals. In this way Horace can tell when his hens are shirking, and how much he makes on each hen. He says that his experience is that roosters are a glaring fraud, putting on style all around, and never laying an egg once in two weeks.'

A Sockdolager.

In one of the interior counties of Missouri lived, some eight years ago, a man who followed preaching for a living. He was called Elder B———, and was engaged to preach for the Campbellites His peculiarities soon made him quite noted, and large audiences assembled to hear him. Of late he has abandoned the pulpit, and is now a Justice of the peace lawyer. On one occasion, at the zenith of his fame, he preached a discourse upon the deliverance of the children of Israel, in which he said:

"Brethren, there are many difficult passages in the Bible, and you are likely to be led into error unless made to understand them. Now, you have read this chapter wherein Moses stretched out his hand over the Red Sea, and the waters became a wall, and the children of Israel went over on dry ground safely, and how the pursuing Egyptians, the chariots and horsemen, and all the hosts of Pharaoh were drowned. Now, my brethren, as this reads it is hard to believe and difficult to explain; but I will explain it. It don't mean what it says: for I tell you I have read it in the original Greek, and it is there all explained and made perfectly plain; and in the next translation of the Bible, which our Church is getting out, it will be all explained. Now this passage of Scripture, when properly explained, means simply this: When Moses and the children of Israel arrived at the Red Sea they camped all night, and it turned cold, and the "strong east wind" caused it to freeze over; and the truth of the whole matter is plain, as you can see that the children of Israel passed over, 'dry shod,' on the ice. There were no such things as great walls. The original Greek will not permit any such unjust and difficult translations. And again when the Egyptians, with their immense armies, heavy chariots and great weight, pursued the children on the ice, they broke through it, and were all ingulfed, drowned and lost. This, my brethren and sisters, is the true and fair explanation of this circumstance, and the original Greek in the next translation will explain it to you all, and make it plain."

"Brother B———, I would like to ask a question, if you have no objections."

The elder, looking triumphantly toward the brother, answered:

"All right, sir; ask just as many questions as you want to."

"Well," continued the brother, "my knowledge of geography and the location of the Red Sea show that it is located nearly under the equator, and is therefore in a very warm climate, and never known to be frozen. Will the gentleman please tell the audience where the ice came from of which he spoke!

The elder became excited, and answered with lofty disdain:

"If the brother who asked me this question knew half as much about the Scripture and the geography of the country as he pretends to, he would know that this circumstance which I have explained happened thousands and thousands of years ago; yes, sir, thousands of years before there were any geographies, and before there was any equator! I think, brethren and sisters, I have answered the gentleman completely!"

Nine Wives and Nine Widows.

A correspondent writing from Ogden, in Utah, to the Cincinnati Commercial, says: A Gentile friend showed me a tolerably large house, with considerable front, and what seemed to me an unnecessary number of small windows. "Do you know what that is?" he asked. I told him I thought it was a house. "Yes, it's a Mormon house. In that house there used to be a man with nine wives." "Poor fellow!" I involuntarily exclaimed, with a sigh; "and is he dead?" "Yes dead." "I should think so. But why did he have so many wives?" "Well so as to get to heaven, I suppose. But he had an awful time on earth, for his wives didn't get along well together." I should not think it necessary," I said, "to create a small hell on earth in order to get to heaven."

"Neither should I, but the Mormons think the more wives they have the better their chance of being saved; so this man married nine, all he could get, and thought his chances for the next world pretty good. He had a separate room for each wife, and that is why you see so many windows in the house. Each wife also had a separate way to get to her room, so that she would not meet with any of the other wives. You say they did not like each other much?" "I should think not." "No, indeed, and the old man had a hard time of it so long as he lived." "Where are his wives now?" I asked. "Oh, scattered about, some trying to make a respectable living, and others living in a way that is anything but respectable."

"Are there any more nine-wived men here?" I asked. "No, but there are plenty with three and four wives; but they are not marrying as much as they used to, times are getting squally."

A FRENCH lawer defended a man who had taken a chicken from a farmyard. He said his client was insane. "I do not see in this thief anything that would account for the insanity of the prisoner," said the Judge. "I beg your pardon," replied the lawyer, "this poor fellow is certainly insane, He stole a wretched, skinny chicken, when he might have taken a nice fat pig."

A Reason.

WHY IT DOES NOT DIE.

A New York correspondent of the Chicago Tribune tells the following capital story of Mrs. Woodhull:

There is no resisting Woodhull, if she "goes for" a man that man is just as sure to subscribe as he is to take his cocktail. How well I remember the time when she "went for" me, mistaking me for another man. I was seated in a private office of a

PROMINENT FEDERAL OFFICIAL,

the rightful occupant had retired for a moment, and I was alone. Suddenly, in walked, with a bounce, a neat, trim-looking woman, with a plump waist and a jaunty hat and feather adorning the upper end of her. With a hasty good morning, she seized upon a convenient chair, and with a sudden jerk—"one time and two motions"—she was seated by my side, very close. I looked towards the door, but her formidable presence barred escape in that direction. She asked me to subscribe; I begged to be excused. She said I must subscribe. Then she laid her little hand upon my arm, and looked at me. She implored me to subscribe, and rolled her eyes at me.

SHE BESOUGHT ME

to subscribe; and the tone of voice in which those eyes spoke went through me like a streak of lightning. She coaxed and she flattered; I begged off. Things were getting desperate; those hands were approaching my coat-collar; somebody might come in, and—the people of this world are fearfully suspicious. To save my reputation I subscribed; and paid my four dollars, which the gentle lady whipped into a pocket-book which she drew from somewhere in the vicinity of her chin. She then pulled from her pocket a book in which she desired me to write my name. I did so, signing my name, which it is,

JOHN SMITH.

"What?" said the Woodhull, "is your name Smith?" "It is, indeed." I replied with the dignity becoming a Smith, "and a John Smith, too." "Why, ain't you Tom Murphy?" "Not a Tom," said I. "Why, my dear fellow," she said, "I thought you were Tom Murphy, and that I'd got to work hard to coax you over. But where is Tom? I must catch Tom sure." I told her Tom would not be in for a week, and so got rid of her. But that's the way subscriptions are obtained for Woodhull & Claflin's Weekly. No wonder it is a success, with those eyes going around soliciting subscribers.

Queer Story of Superstition.

The Berlin, Wisconsin, Journal has this story: "A gentleman who resided in this city has related to us a strange story of superstition and barbarity which he claimed had happened in this city recently. Our informant was a German and the parties in this story are Polanders, but their names we could not learn. The story, as related, is substantially as follows: About the last of November or the first of December a young Polish woman gave birth to a child. About two days afterward she died and was buried in the city cemetery. After about five weeks the wife of the brother of the dead woman was taken very sick, and it was thought she would die.

"It appears that there is a superstitious idea among the Polanders that if one of a family dies, unless the head of the corpse is cut off the whole family will be likely to follow in rapid succession. However, if after one had died, another one is taken sick, if some of the blood is procured from the dead body and administered to the patient he will recover. In accordance with this superstition, our informant alleges, the husband of the sick woman went to the burying ground on the night of January 2nd, five weeks after interment, dug up the body, cut off the head, and took from it blood and other liquid, which he administered to his wife as medicine; that shortly after this the sick woman's malady assumed the form of smallpox, from which she recovered, and she is now entirely well. Our informant claimed that many witnesses could be brought to corroborate this story, and from what we learned we are led to believe there is some foundation to it. The person who gave us the information knows the name of the Polander in question, but would not disclose it."

THE AMERICAN WASHER?

PRICE $5.50

THE AMERICAN WASHER SAVES MONEY, TIME, AND DRUDGERY.

The Fatigue of Washing Day no Longer Dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing, Sure.

In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated.

It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting! It is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the rub board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabric, from a Quilt to a Lace Curtain or Cambric Handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of the LITTLE GEM! It can be fastened to any tub and taken of at will.

No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and detractor at once becomes the fast friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, useless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the object promised in prominent and sound-sounding advertisements.

It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.

All that is asked for this GREAT LABOR SAVER, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly.

AMERICAN INDUSTRIES & "REVENUE REFORMERS."

No. III.

We this week close our remarks on "Revenue Reformers, &c.," by referring to the history of the cultivation and manufacture of Silk and Native Wines in this country and the manner in which those engaged in these sources of wealth are benefitted by a protective tariff. And first, we will speak of

SILK.

Among the more recently recognized experiments which promise, under the present protective tariff, most important industrial and financial results, is the culture and manufacture of silk. These industries have the two-fold merit of giving employment to farmers and their families in propagating the silk worm and preparing the raw silk; and to manufacturing workingmen in the preparation of silk fabrics. The culture of silk can be made more profitable when pursued in connection with other branches of agricultural industry, than by making it an independent or exclusive specialty.

The Mulberry, upon which the silk-worm feeds, is indigenous, and may be found in the forests of Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, Kansas, California, and in fact in nearly every State in the Union. Where the grape r pens the Mulberry will flourish; and Mulberry nurseries and orchards may be cultivated as easily as those of peach or apple trees. The culture of the silk-worm and the preparation of raw silk require intelligence, skill, and care; but the returns are comparatively large, an acre of ground not unfrequently netting an annual profit of over $1,000 for sixty days labor of two or three hands in June and July.

The other industry, growing out of the silk culture, is its manufacture into dress goods, ribbons, velvets, serges, braids, cords, trimmings, gimps, fringes, sewing-silk, and mixed fabrics of silk and wool, and silk and cotton.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1870, we imported silk goods to the value of nearly 24 million dollars, while the imp rt for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1871, was over 32½ million dollars. Thirty-two and a third millions paid for imported silks alone, an increase of thirty per cent. in a single year, may serve as an indication of the wealth of the country and the increasing opulence of its people; but it affords a damaging commentary upon our enterprise and industry, especially as the evidence is abundant that no country in the world affords better facilities for the production of these goods than the United States. But if the present tariff can be continued, a very few years will produce a most decided change in the sources of supply of these goods. Silk industries are receiving increased attention both in the Atlantic and Pacific States, and with results from which it is safe to predict that within the present decade our own looms will not only supply the home demand, but that the surplus product in silk goods, including eggs, cocoons and manufactured fabrics, will be among our important articles of export.

In California there is already a very large amount of capital invested in the culture of silk, and Mr. Hoag and others report unprecedented success, their profits netting larger returns than can be obtained from any other branch of agricultural industry. Hon. Elliot C. Cowdon, United States Commissioner to the Paris Exposition, says: "Our country is peculiarly fitted for silk culture. Among the finest cocoons exhibited at the Exposition were specimens from California. They were perfect in form, and remarkable for their white, silvery hue. The soil in the Valleys of California is proverbially fertile, and Mulberry trees are produced of the richest and most luxuriant growth. Its warm, dry, equitable climate makes it vastly superior, for silk husbandry, to France or Italy." As much may be said for many other parts of the Union.

The manufacture of silk goods is advancing, as we learn from the fact that before the tariff on goods was raised, there were not fifty silk looms in the country, for the manufacture of broad silk, while at the present time there are not less than one thousand silk looms in New Jersey, and in other sections of the country not less than three thousand more. There are in Paterson, N. J. alone thirty establishments for manufacturing silk fabrics of almost every variety. One manufactory in Hartford, Conn., is producing silk goods to the value of nearly three million of dollars per annum. A French Colony in Franklin, Kansas, are manufacturing silk velvet ribbons, and such is the perfection of their machinery that one man can weave 280 yards of velvet ribbon per day, of various patterns and breadths, and of the finest texture. They are neatly put up and marked in gilt labels: "Extra French Velvet, manufactured at Kansas, America," and are pronounced by dealers in St. Louis, and other western markets equal to the best imported goods. Mr. Boissiere, superintendent of the Kansas Colony, supplied this country with silk goods from France before the tariff was raised; under the tariff he exported himself and his weavers to America, and put up a fine stone building for a silk manufactory in one of the Western States. So far his enterprise has been attended with the most encouraging results. And as a Nebraska paper says: "If one such establishment can be made a success in the Great West, there is room for a thousand others."

But what do the Revenue Reformers demand? Mr. Atkinson says that the duty on importations of silk manufactures must be reduced to 35 per cent. or about an average of the duties on silk goods previous to the protective tariff of 1861. Is it not strange that Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Wells should make a demand to reduce the duty on silks—goods that find their way into the homes only of the well-to-do and the wealthy, while they are opposed to any reduction of the duties on tea and coffee,—articles of necessity in every poor man's family? Stranger still that our Revenue Reformers' insist upon stripping one half of the duty from imported silks, goods that can and should be produced at home; and are opposed to any reduction of the duty on tea and coffee,—articles that cannot be produced at home!

The adoption of the Revenue Reformers' tariff of duties for silk goods would effectually destroy the silk culture and manufacture in the United States, and send from 30 to 50 million of dollars out of the country annually, that justly belong to our agricultural and manufacturing industries.

NATIVE WINES.

Temperance statistics have demonstrated the fact that in countries where grapes are abundantly cultivated and pure, cheap wines are accessible to all classes, the communities are more temperate than in any other part of the world. Our medical men assert confidently, and with reason, that an increase of wine presses in the United States will diminish the number of whisky stills, and promote the cause of temperance. It is therefore satisfactory to know that the manufacture of wine has assumed such proportions as to entitle it to rank among our important industries. It is estimated that not less than twenty thousand persons are engaged directly or indirectly in the culture of the grape, and the manufacture of wines in the State of New York alone. This involves a capital of five million dollars, and the cultivation of fifteen thousand acres of grapes. The "Pleasant Valley Company" at the head of Crooked Lake, in Steuben county, N. Y., has been engaged in making wines since 1860. Their product last year amounted to one hundred thousand gallons of still wines, and one hundred and fifty thousand bottles of champagne. This year, their estimated product will be two hundred thousand bottles of sparkling wines—The "Urbana Company," near the same place, commenced in 1865. Their product last year was ninety-one thousand gallons of still wines, consuming 649 tons of grapes. They also put up one hundred and twenty thousand bottles of Champagne wines. There are many other companies in the State. In fact, it is represented that the extent of the New York Vineyards is without a parallel on this side of the Rocky Mountains. But the cultivation of the grape and manufacture of wines are not confined to the State of New York. Along the southern border of Lake Erie, in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Missouri, Texas, Arizona, Alta California, and in other States, wines are now produced in very considerable quantities. If the quality can be brought up to and sustained at the standard of the best foreign wines, it is safe to predict that not only our own demand will be fully supplied, but that many of the Foreign markets will be largely furnished with American wines.

Great attention is given by American manufacturers to the quality of their wines. Experienced men from France are employed, and the most approved selection and combination of grapes, and preparation of the juice have been adopted. As the demand depends almost wholly upon the quality of the wine, it is satisfactory to know that great success in this respect has already been achieved, as the result of a recent competitory trial most clearly indicates. At the annual grape fair at Hammonds Port, New York, in September last, there were six hundred entries of grapes, covering three tables, each 100 feet long. Among the prizes offered was one of $50 for a sample of the best sparkling wine of Foreign or American manufacture. Among the Foreign wines competing, were bottles of the most popular brands known. The judges were placed in a room apart from that which contained the wines to be tested. Samples were drawn from each bottle and carried to the Judges. After thorough examination the palm of victory was awarded, unanimously, to an American wine, called the "Great Western Sparkling," manufactured by the Pleasant Valley Company of New York. This must not be taken as conclusive evidence that the standard of American wines is higher than that of foreign wines generally; but it is valuable testimony in support of the fact that we need not be excelled by any other country. With every serious difficulty in the manufacture successfully overcome, there can be no doubt that the general introduction of pure native wines, and especially still wines, at low prices, will not only be a great source of agricultural and manufacturing industry, but, what is better, will lessen the consumption of whisky and other strong drinks, promote temperance, and abate the destruction of immense quantities of corn now sent to the distillery, which will then be converted into wholesome bread, or exported to Europe.

The tariff of duties on wines as at present arranged is radically defective. It encourages dishonesty, false invoices, and the importation of immense quantities of spurious, low priced wines; and it fails to protect the honest manufacturer of native wines. For example: During the year ending June, 1838, there were over six million gallons of cask wines imported. Of this only 4 per cent was entered at Customs at, or over the value of $1,00 per gallon, paying a duty of about $1,58 per gallon.—Only 9 per cent. was entered at 50 cents and under $1,00 paying a duty of 58 cents per gallon; while about 87 per cent. of the entire six million of gallons was entered at or under 50 cents per gallon, paying a duty of only about 27 cents per gallon. The duty on the whole six million gallons averaged only 35 cents per gallon. As it is almost impossible to ascertain the true value of wines, they are generally entered very much under the original or true invoice cost, to evade the just claims of the tariff.

In 1870, the duty on 40 cent wines, and under, was reduced to 25 cents per gallon; and on wines over 40, up to $1,00 per gallon, the duty was reduced to 60 cents. Consequently, the country is almost flooded with low-priced wines, unfit for use; while large quantities are entered at the Customs at prices much below their true invoice value.

This last change in the tariff is making matters worse for our own wine manufacturers, as we shall see: During the year ending June 30, 1871, over 9½ millions of cask wines were brought into the country, at a cost of over three and a quarter million dollars; besides half a million bottles of high priced wines, costing two and a third million dollars. Now while not over ten, and probably not over 5 per cent. of the imported wines, at least 60 per cent. of them are inferior to the home product, and are compounded, or "doctored" with log wood, blackberries, rhubarb, cider, whisky, sugar and water.

Now is it reasonable that three or four million gallons of compounded wines should be admitted at 25 cents per gallon duty, while our own manufacturers, if properly protected could soon supply the entire demand with pure wines? Even the Revenue Reformers have protested against this monstrous wrong. Mr. Wells says the duty should not fall below fifty cents per gallon on any wines imported, but he would have the duty on all cask wines uniform at that rate. This he claims as a Revenue, not a protective measure. Now if another fifty cents were added for Protection, making the duty on all cask wines $1,00 per gallon, a decided check would be given to the importation of the poisonous stuff now brought into the country under the name of wine.—In Europe the grape crop is a failure this year, and the old stock of wines was nearly all used or destroyed during the war in France. But under the present duty of 25 cents per gallon, we shall probably receive our usual supply of cheap Foreign wines.

Champagne, or Sparkling wines, are now taxed a duty of $1,50 per doz for half pints; $3 for pints and $6 for quarts. In bottles over a quart $2,00 per gallon. Mr. Wells claims that all wines in bottles should be taxed uniformly $6 per dozen. This would, apparently, be a large increase on the present rates. But as the quality of wines imported in half pints and pints is usually about the same as that imported in quarts and over, it would be absurd to attempt to tax a dozen half pint bottles, (3 quarts in all) the comparatively large amount of six dollars, while twelve quart bottles, containing three gallons, would pay no more. There is no justice in taxing half pints and pints as high as quarts. If attempted, the result would be an entire stoppage of the importation of the smaller bottles, and an increase in the supply of quarts, and over quart bottles—for it is intended to include all bottles containing over as well as under a quart. Under this arrangement we would have a larger importation of wine and a decrease of revenue; but we would have no wines in pints and half pints.

It will be more nearly just to all parties to continue the duty on bottled wines as at present, and increase the duty on cask wines to a uniform tax of $1.00 per gallon. This will give us a higher grade of imported cask wines; afford our own manufacturers an opportunity to develop their infant industries, and bring up the home supply of pure still wines to a fair competition with the foreign trade.

CONCLUSION.

In this review of the tariff, in its bearing upon some of our important industries, the object has been, not only to point out the danger of the Revenue Reform policy, but also to indicate that medium in the tariff rates which will admit a healthy foreign competition, and at the same time secure to American products the control of our own markets. To concede more than this to foreign competition, would be doing injustice to our own people.

Industry is the direct source of national as well as individual wealth. Independence is the reward of labor; but without legislative protection labor is vain. Under a fostering care for the interests of the working classes, industry receives its reward. Thrift becomes a national element, and the government itself is thereby strengthened. Ancient Greece the birth-place of Republicanism and free Governments, became great and powerful seven hundred years before the Christian era. Her greatness was the direct result of the fostering care extended to her agricultural, mechanical and commercial industries.—When haughty Persia, envying the wealth of the Grecian nation, demanded of the Athenians a portion of their treasures in the form of tribute, the audacious Persian exactions were refused with contempt, and the powerful fleets of the intruder were driven in disgrace from the Grecian seas. Her industries had made her powerful and independent. Can modern America do less for her citizens than her illustrious predecessors of 25 hundred years ago? The Dutch founded a nation in the fourth century of the christian era, in a country composed of peat swamp land, which, until reclaimed by patient industry, was periodically overflowed by rivers in the rear and the sea in front. To-day her great cities rest upon piles driven into peat bogs. Through industrial habits, carefully fostered by judicious legislation, the Dutch nation soon controlled the commerce of the sea, and supplied the world with her manufactures.

If these examples of protected industry, induced by a fostering legislative regard for the national interests, are worthy of imitation, then it becomes the people of this nation to press upon Congress the duty of adhering to its protective policy with a firmness that will give the country confidence in its permanency. Capital will then seek investment with greater confidence in new fields of industry, from which it is now withheld by a perpetual apprehension of changes in tariff. The energies of the people will have full scope; enterprise and labor will receive their reward, and industry and thrift will become universal. There will be less crime, because of more employment; and more virtue, because of less poverty and temptation. Communities profitably employed will be less disposed to waste their time in political discussions and strife, and the people will be better prepared to recognize their obligations and duties under a free Government, whose authority and power are vested in themselves; while the Government itself, infused with these energies reflected back from the people, will grow stronger and more zealous in its guardianship of the national interests.

DON'T LEAVE THE FARM.

Come, boys, I have something to tell you,
Come near, I won'd whisper it low—
You are thinking of leaving the Homestead,
Don't be in a hurry to go.
The city has many attractions,
But think of the vices and sins,
When once in the vortex of fashion,
How soon the course onward begins.

You talk of the mines of Australia,
They'er wealthy in gold without doubt,
But ah! there is gold on the farm, boys,
If only you'll shovel it out,
The mercantile life is a hazard,
The goods are first high and then low,
Better risk the old farm awhile longer,
Don't be in a hurry to go.

The great busy West has inducements,
And so has the busiest mart,
But wealth is not made in a day, boys.
Don't be in a hurry to start!
The bankers and brokers are wealthy,
They take in their thousands or so,
Ah! think of the frauds and deceptions.
Don't be in a hurry to go!

The farm is the safest and surest,
The orchards are loaded to-day,
You're free as the air of the mountains,
And monarch of all you survey,
Better stay on the farm awhile longer,
Though profits come in rather slow,
Remember you've nothing to risk, boys,
Don't be in a hurry to go.

Manures

[From the American Farmer.]

COMPOSTS ON THE FARM.—Long experience and observation convince us, that the most profitable labor on the farm, is that of the accumulation of the materials for manure which can be found on the premises of every land holder, and the manufacture of same into composts with the dung from the horse and cattle stables. In the manner in which the lands in the old States have been managed for the last half century, the yield therefrom cannot be made to pay for the labor, now of so high cost, and yield a revenue to owners; consequently it is time lost to attempt to raise crops from land in the condition in which most of our farms are at present, unless a fresh supply of nutriment is furnished to it. It is true, those who may be fortunate enough to have ready cash, can purchase commercial manures to effect a renovation of their estates but alas! how few there are that are now in that position, the many letters we are daily receiving, congratulating us on again re-uming our old editorial position, too plainly show. Even to those who may have the means, or enjoy the credit to obtain fertilizers, the experience of the last year or two has proved how futile has been their hopes, as the thousands of nostrums offered them have proved almost worthless, and really left the farmer worse off than he was before. We therefor renew our urgent appeal to every farmer, when he cannot attend to other out door business, to employ every opportunity of hunting up all such materials as are to be found on and near his own premises, to increase his manure heap.

LIME.—Here let us remark, that all lands which have been long in cultivation, will be benefitted, if in addition to the putrescent manures, a dressing of Lime is applied to them. Stone lime will be generally preferred, and if handy is perhaps the cheaper application; but, weight for weight, we have ever belived that oyster shell lime was the more desirable; the calcareous principle is the main advantage in both, but the latter, in addition, contains some two per cent, of phosphoric acid—and the same is true of oyster shell marl.

When marl however is applied twice the quantity is required to equal the benefits expected from the pure lime Some fifteen years or more ago, the idea was advanced in the pages of the old Farmer, founded on experiments then made by its editor, that the quantity of lime most usually recommended and applied at each dressing was unnecessarily large—that ten bushels per acre was amply sufficient, but that this was to be repeated the oftener—that is, for each year, the quantity of lime per acre required was ten bushels, and if the rotation was one of four or five years, 40 or 50 bushels were amply sufficient, the dose then to be repeated. Within the last year or two Prof Voelcker, of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, in an address before that body, announced the results of a series of experiments which he had been making upon this very point, and they were identical with those advanced in our journal, viz; that all lands must have lime in them, either naturally or applied artificially, but that ten bushels per acre, for each year, was all that was requisite. Moreover, that lime was not a manure of itself, but that it had the effect of bringing into activity the mineral and vegetable materials lying dormant in the soil However, so that there is not too much put on our fields, which many have found to their sorrow is sometimes the case; seize the present opportunity of applying it in such quantities as your purse or convenience will permit, whether it be stone or oyster shell lime, or in the form of marl.

ASHES.—If it were possible to obtain wood ashes in sufficient quantities, the advantage would be gained of furnishing, in one application not only lime, but also every other inorganic constituent of cultivated plants. A bushel of good ashes contains about 5½ lbs, of real potash, but in leaching them, the greater part of this and of the soda they contain, is abstracted, though the other ingredients retain the same value as before, among which phosphoric acid and magnesia are the most valuable with the carbonate of lime, which makes up the great bulk of the mass. Ashes, therefore, are preferable to lime, applied alone, as they contain all the elements of the inorganic food of plants—but, where there is inert matter in the soil, the lime will, from its powers of conversion, or decomposition, have a salutary influence, as is shown by its action upon worn-out fields—and so long as it has substances to operate upon, its effects will be beneficial. The liming or marling of land, should therefore always be followed by clover or some other green forage crop, to be turned in. We admonish the farmer to avail himself of every opportunity of obtaining ashes—they ought to be scrupulously saved everywhere or purchased wherever it is possible to obtain them at a reasonable cost. In the cities and towns, coal is so universally taking the place of wood for fuel, that it is now difficult to obtain much of a supply from this source, but, we again repeat, whenever possible they should be secured. The potash of commerce is generally used in the manufacture of manure, when it is intended to apply them for any particular plant requiring much potash, but the quantity so added we imagine is small, as it is costly; but better purchase it, than dispense with its application.

STRINGHALT.—It seems to be conceded that this trouble is the result of an injury or a strain, and as soon as discovered complete rest is recommended, with light diet, nauseating medicines, with an occasional light dose of cathartic medicine to clear out the bowels, and cold water bandages around the body. Chronic cases, of long standing, are regarded incurable. It is recommended, however, where the horse is debilitated, to rub the spine daily with a mixture composed of one pint of linseed oil, two ounces spirits of hartshorn and half an ounce of fine mustard, at the same time giving, morning and evening, a dose of one ounce each of powdered golden seal, powdered gentian, cream of tarter and charcoal, and one-half ounce assafœtida mixed and divided into eight equal parts.

WILBERFORCE, the Christian statesman, went into the nursery one day to see his children. One of them cried as he took him up, whereupon the nurse remarked, by way of apology for the child's tears:

"He is always afraid of strangers."

The remark of the nurse went to the statesman's heart. He was a stranger to his own child. Public duties had been permitted to overshadow paternal obligations. He shuddered as the fact stood forth in all its ruggedness before his eyes, and he resolved that henceforth, he would so arrange his public duties as to find opportunity of becoming acquainted with his own children.

DAUPHIN county has been invaded by wolves and catamounts.

Hoofland's German Bitters.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or VITAL PRINCIPLE OF ROOTS, HERBS, and BARKS, for, as medicinally termed, Extracts, the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons of ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, when they compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others; no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic.

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1,50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it, will most certainly be cheated.

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at present Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1871.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in case of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON. JAS. THOMPSON, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider "Hoofland's German Bitter" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my own experience of it.
Yours, with respect, JAS. THOMPSON.

HON. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

I have found by experience that "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARSWOOD

HON. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak, as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. WOOD.

MARASMUS,
Or Wasting away of the Body.
REMEMBER
THAT
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S
PODOPHYLLIN,
Or Substitute for Mercury Pills.
TWO PILLS A DOSE.
The Most Powerful, Yet Innocent Vegetable Cathartic Known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, clearing it specially from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, regulates the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can remain a hold, or even assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. These Remedies will be sent by Express to any locality upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 631 Arch st, Philadelphia.

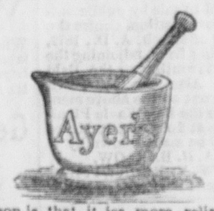
Ayer's Cathartic Pils
For all the the Purpose of a Laxative medicine.



Perhaps no one medicine so universally required by everybody a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use in every county and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill.—The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them: those who have not, knows that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions from the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

For Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, BILLIOUS HEADACHE, SICK HEADACHE, JAUNDICE or GREEN SICKNESS, BILLIOUS COLIC and BILLIOUS FEVERS, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back or Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For DROPSY and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
For restoring Grey Hair to its natural Vitality & Color.

A dress which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Fresh or grey hair is restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparation dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a
HAIR DRESSING,
nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Near Alike as Two Peas.

A brief letter from Dorchester, Mass., to the Boston Advertiser tells the following: "There are in this town two twin brothers, whose resemblance to each other is so strong that strangers can hardly tell them apart. They keep a grocery and provision 'store,' and were one day bringing in bags of meal from a wagon which was out of sight from inside the store. Nathan had his coat on, but Eli was in his shirt-sleeves. A stranger in the shop watched them coming in and going out one after the other, but only one was visible at a time, and at last he exclaimed to Eli, 'Well, you're the smartest man I ever saw; but why do you keep putting on and taking off your coat?' These brothers and several other men were in the habit of getting up very early and going to swim in the 'Reservoir Pond,' and once Eli going, as was his wont, to Nathan's house to call him, by tapping on the pane, saw his own face reflected from the glass, and, taking it for his brother, called out, "Come on, they are all waiting for you."

A Practical Joke.

An Irishman took the contract to dig a public well. When he had dug about twenty-five feet down, he came one morning and found it caved in—filled nearly to the top. Pat looked cautiously around and saw that no person was near, then took off his hat and coat, hung them on a windlass, crawled into some bushes and waited events. In a short time the citizens discovered that the well had caved in, and seeing Pat's hat and coat on the windlass they supposed that he was at the bottom of excavation. Only a few hours of brisk digging cleared the loose earth from the well. Just as the eager citizens had reached the bottom, and were wondering where the body was, Pat came walking out of the bushes and good-naturedly thanked them for relieving him of a sorry job. Some of the tired diggers were disgusted, but the joke was too good to allow any thing more than a hearty laugh, which soon followed.

THE BEAUTY OF HAPPINESS.—Ruskin says: "Do not think you can make a girl lovely if you do not make her happy. There is not one restraint you put on a good girl's nature—there is not one shock you give to her instincts of affection or effort—which will not be indelibly written on her features with a hardness which is all the more painful because it takes away the brightness from the eyes of innocence and the charm from the brow of virtue. The perfect loveliness of a woman's countenance can only consist in that majestic peace which is founded in the memory of happy and useful years—full of sweet records; and from the finishing of this with that yet more majestic childishness, which is still full of change and promise, opening always, modest at once and bright with hope of brighter things to be won, and to be bestowed. There is no old age where there is still that promise—it is eternal youth."

NARROW GUAGE R. R.—We learn from an esteemed correspondent that 2½ miles of the "Kansas, Central Narrow Guage R. R." have been completed, and stocked with passenger cars. There is over 25 miles graded and ready for the ties. This portion of the road will be finished and in good running order by the first of May. The friends of this road are sanguine of success, and predict that it will never stop short of Denver, and New Mexico. Kansas is fast filling up with people and is evidently destined to become one of the most populous and wealthy States in the Union.

There is a man in the East so mean, that he wishes his landlord to reduce the price of his board because he has had two of his teeth extracted.

THE WEEK,

A RESUME OF CURRENT OPINION, HOME AND FOREIGN.

THE WEEK fills a place unoccupied hitherto in American journalism, though its importance has long ago been demonstrated in England. From week to week it presents the cream of home and foreign journalism, and gathers from the leading papers of America and England, and of all sections and parties, the most important utterances on current questions of Politics, Society, Religion, Literature, Science, Art, Music, the Drama, and all other topics likely to interest the reader. In addition to the longer articles, which themselves cover every variety of subject, there is Literary Gossip, Science and Art Gossip, Musical and Dramatic Gossip, and General Notes and News, giving the freshest and most copious intelligence in all these departments In no other paper can be found so large and so various an amount of instructive and entertaining reading matter.

The first No. of The Week was published on December 2d of last year, and in the short space of two months has achieved a most decided and flattering success. No paper has ever received more cordial words from the press and the critics, and it is the general testimony that The Week has met an important and well-defined want in the journalism of America.

Read what the Press says.

THE WEEK is the title of a new paper which bids fair to fill a void in New York journalism. It is filled with a selection of the more noticeable articles of the various daily papers—not editorial merely, but extracts also from news and correspondence. Thus at a glance the busy man who has had no leisure to see more than one, if any, daily paper during the week, gets the cream of the entire newspaper literature—not the metropolitan only but of other cities, and to some extent of foreign capitals also.—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE WEEK is a new paper which ought to take a permanent place in American journalism. Possessed of it the reader will find that he can dispense with most other journals and still keep abreast of the most enlightened current opinion on Politics, Society, Religion, Art, Music, and the Drama, and the like.—Springfield Republican.

THE WEEK is the title of a new paper whose ideas we like. The selections are well made, and we hope THE WEEK will find abundant patronage.—Independent.

Is success ought not to be a matter of doubt.—Chicago Journal.

THE WEEK is a 16 page paper of large size, with three broad columns to the page, and is neatly and tastefully printed.

TERMS—$3 a year; single copy 8 cents. Trial subscription, 4 consecutive numbers for 25 cents.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, March 27th, 1872.

ANOTHER large stock of toys and fancy goods, just received at the "Model Book Store, opposite the Bush House.

DISSOLUTION.—The partnership heretofore existing between Messrs Keller & Musser, has been dissolved. The business will be conducted by Mr. Keller, at the old stand, on Bishop St.

DON'T fail to see the large stock of China and Glass-ware, at Jas. Welch & Co. It is of a quality superior to any heretofore brought to this town, and at prices surprisingly low.

NEW GOODS.—Hoffer & Brother are receiving daily at their large and splendid store, invoices of fashionable spring goods. This is a strong, reliable, honest firm. Every person knows Jno. Hoffer —honest John.

SNOW.—On Monday, about 4 o'clock, P. M., snow commenced falling, and on Tuesday morning the ground was completely covered with a beautiful white coat. Truly "winter lingers in the lap of spring."

REMOVED.—After April 1st, 1872, the Boot Shoe and Leather Store of Graham & Son, will be found on Bishop St., next door to Keller's Store, where they will keep the largest stock of Boots Shoes and Leather in town. 13-4t.

NOTICE.—Subscribers to the REPUBLICAN, who intend to change their place of residence on the 1st of April, should notify us of said change at once, stating the place where they have been receiving the paper, and the name of the Post Office to which they desire it to be sent in future.

REPORT.—It is our desire to have a reporter in every township in the county. We would like to have every item of interest occurring in any or every portion of the county. Who will volunteer? Need not be particular about composition, send us the facts, and we will do the rest.

DON'T FORGET.—Col. R. B. Beath will be in town this evening for the purpose of organizing a Post of the Grand Army of the Republic. Soldiers who have honorable discharges should be present and be mustered in. The call is for 300 and as many more as will come. Do not forget.

ACADEMY.—The Bellefonte Academy, Rev. J. P. Hughes, Principal, is increasing in usefulness and in the number of students every day. It is a first class school, and does away with the necessity of sending our children out of the county, to obtain their education. For further particulars address the Principal, Mr. Hughes.

PUBLIC SALE.—Dr. J. D. Wingate, will dispose of his entire stock of household goods, on Saturday next, at his residence on Spring street, next door to Harper Brothers store. The sale will commence at 10 o'clock, A. M. It is a large sale, and many valuable articles will be disposed of. See advertisement and large Bills.

DENTIST.—It is with pleasure we direct the attention of the readers of the REPUBLICAN to the Professional card of Dr. J. W. Rhone, Boalsburg, Pa. Dr. Rhone has gained for himself a high reputation as a Dentist. His work speaks for itself, and his prices are reasonable. He is agent for the new improved Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine. Also Agent for the New York Mutual Life Insurance Company. Persons wishing to see him Professionally will find him in his office every Monday and Saturday of each week. Dr. Rhone is active and energetic, a first class man and Dentist.

READ.—Before you lay this paper down, read all the advertisements, and if you wish to save money, deal only with those who invite you to call, through their advertisement. The merchant, or business man who is too penurious to advertise his goods for sale in his local papers, is not the man for you, reader, to get anything off in the shape of a bargain. The live, liberal merchant is he who advertises extensively, and shows thereby that he is anxious to do business. From such a man you can always obtain a bargain. First class goods at reasonable prices. Remember these instructions and shape your actions accordingly.

AGENT.—H. Y. Stuzer, Esq., who recently purchased Mr Livingston's Book Store, and who by the way is doing a lucrative business, has become Agent for the Harrisburg State Journal. This paper should command a ready sale in this town and county. It is edited by our old friend Wein Forney who is, most emphatically, one of the best political writers and news paper editors in the State. It was not necessary for us to say this, here, where Wein Forney is so well known and so highly respected and esteemed by all our people. The State Journal is a faithful exponent of Republican principles—a defender of the right and is at all times a terror to evil doers. As the Presidential campaign is about to open vigorously, we would be pleased to see one hundred copies of the Daily Journal distributed in Bellefonte. Leave your names, gentlemen, with Mr. Stuzer.

For the REPUBLICAN.

HOWARD, PA., March 16, 1872.

ED. REPUBLICAN; Dear Sir:—In your issue of 6th inst., appeared an anonymous communication purporting to be "commendable mention of the musical convention held here by Prof. Hagar and his assistants." The overstrained tone of sarcasm in which the article is written out, lilly conceals that the animus of it is, in the fact that the "economy" of the committee was directed toward the legitimate objects of the convention, and not prostituted to the benefit of "Pilgrims" pocket, by furnishing him with a "complimentary ticket," embracing in its charitable arms not only himself, but Mrs. "Pilgrim," Sister "Pilgrim" and all the little "Pilgrims."

If your indignant correspondent had confined himself to the ventilation of his own grievances, or even to the untruthful insinuations that an admittance, &c., was demanded of the "Minister's little daughter," His article would have been deemed entirely unworthy of notice; but the unkind and ungentlemanly fling at Mr. Lauth, and his accomplished Daughter, Mrs. Comfond, demands some attention at the hands of those at whose solicitation, and for whose benefit, they consented to play. The convention was organized and conducted for the benefit of the M. E. Church, of this place, and the committee, believing that the assistance of Mr. Lauth and daughter, would not only add very largely to the musical interest of the occasion; but tend greatly to make it more lucrative, labored assiduously, to obtain it, and feel themselves very greatly indebted to these friends for their fully-accorded kindness. That "Pilgrims" untutored ear failed to enable him to appreciate the magnificent music which they discoursed is a matter to be deeply deplored by him, but does not warrant him in the coarse and unjust insinuations that their splendid performance is so grotesque a caricature as only to amuse the juveniles.

The universally expressed sentiment of those who are capable of forming an intelligent opinion, is that the selections of Mr. Lauth and Mrs. Comford, and their brilliant executions of them, are musicians of a very high order of merit, and entirely out of reach of the contemptible flings of any anonymous scribler, who seems to think his failure to hear them on "complimentary tickets" a justification of his unseemly criticism. Of the irreverant, as well as irrelevant allusion in the closing paragraph of "Pilgrims" communication, we can take no further notice than to hold it up to the condemnation of all who esteem our christain religion and its great expounder too highly, to be willing to see it or HIM made the subject of coarse jests, and to congratulate its author on the little remaining, decency which prompted him to make it over a nom de plume, rather than his own signature.

COMMITTEE.

For the REPUBLICAN

MEETING OF THE CITIZENS OF BELLEFONTE.—In persuance of notice in the papers and by hand bills, a meeting of the citizens of the Borough of Bellefonte was held in the Court House, Saturday eve. March 23, 1872, to take into consideration the interests of the Borough, particularly as regards the best means of obtaining and furnishing a full supply of water to each and every inhabitant of the Borough. The meeting was organized by electing, John H. Morrison President, and A. J. Cook, Secretary. Jas. H. Rankin, being called upon, made an explanation of the object of the meeting and gave a statement of the Receipts and expenditures of the water fund during the past three years. Gen. James A. Beaver, then offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting, that the Borough of Bellefonte should not dispose of the present Water Works to private parties, by sale or otherwise

A full and free interchange of opinion was had during the consideration of this resolution, in which Messrs. James A. Beaver, J. G. Kurtz, D. K. Tate, A. O. Furst, Robt. Valentine, Daniel Rhoads, Wm. P. Wilson, John Irwin, Jr., Cyrus Strickland, S. T. Shugert, Adam Hoy and others participated. The question being called for, it was put and unanimously adopted by a rising vote. E. C Humes, Esq., then offered the following, which was in like manner adopted:

Resolved, That Hon. P. Gray Meek, our Member, as also the Senators representing this District, be requested to oppose the passage of the bill now before the Legislature contemplating the sale of the Water Works to a company.

Adam Hoy, Esq., then offered the following resolution, which was adopted without a dissenting voice:

Resolved, That the sense of this meeting is, that the whole subject of water supply be referred to the Town Council, and whatever they may do in the premises will be approved of by the citizens; PROVIDED, that they give the necessary supply of water.

Resolved, That the above proceedings be published in the papers of the Borough, and a copy of the resolutions adopted be sent to our members in the Legislature.

On motion adjourned.

JOHN H. MORRISON, Pres't.

A. J. COOK, Sec'y.

REVENUE.—Our Assistant Assessor, Jas. H Rankin, Esq., is industriously circulating the documents, for returning "Income and special Tax." Every person should give this matter his immediate attention and save trouble. As the income tax does not fall upon the laboring man or farmer, those capitalists who have made there "pile" should walk up like men and pay there just share of the "National Debt."

O. U. A. M.—We have a workingmans organization in this place. It is called the, order, United American Mechanics. From what we know of it, their is nothing political in its character. Its objects and aims are fully set forth in the following which we copy from a little Book, entitled "Constitution, By Laws and Rules of Order."

"We, the undersigned, American Mechanics and Workingmen, having for years, and more particularly of late, felt the peculiar disadvantages under which we labor from foreign competition and foreign combinations, and believing, from past experience and present appearances of the future, that instead of the evil abating, there is a strong probability (if not a certainty) of its increasing; therefore, we feel ourselves bound, by the duty we owe our families, ourselves and our country, to provide for our own protection, by forming ourselves into an association to advance such objects and carry out such principles as shall best promote the interest, elevate the character, and secure the happiness of the body."

"Mechanics and Workingmen of this Country. Coupled with these laudable endeavors to secure to posterity the privileges we enjoy, is the ennobling and praiseworthy duty of aiding our fellowman in distress—that, when laid upon a bed of sickness, the friendly, and, we trust, timely aid of this Order may be manifested, in providing for our necessities. In the silent watches of the night, a friend will be ever ready to administer to our wants, and if death lays his cold hand upon us, we shall depart with the assurance that our widowed consort will be the recipient of the imperishable friendship of our Order; and, if needs be, that pecuniary assistance which will soften the asperity of their desolate condition."

"The paternal guardianship of this Order will ever bring our fatherless children within their watchful care, and especially will the orphans be protected from the snares of a cold and heartless world, and placed in the path that leads them to honor and usefulness here, and to a blessed rest hereafter. Therefore, for the purpose of advancing such objects and principles, we hereby pledge ourselves, as Americans, to use every fair and honorable means, consistent with our duty as citizens, and our social duties to the human family, and agree to be governed by the following Constitution."

THOSE ARRESTS.—We stated last week that eight or ten young men of this place had been arrested and lodged in jail on suspicion of having been instrumental in some manner, of causing the recent fires. Ten persons were arrested on the oath of Mr. Crouse, Agent of the Lycoming Insurance Co., who made his oath, from statements made to him by a Mr. Fullmer, who was evidently working for the promised reward. Six of the boys were discharged by Judge Dopp, at the hearing on Wednesday last, and four were held to answer in $2.000 bail, each. If his Honor Judge Mayer had been the presiding officer, we have no hesitancy in saying that all would have been discharged. As the case will be tried at our April Term, we shall refrain from saying anything to prejudice the case.

STOVES TINWARE, &c.—Messrs Wetsler & Twitmire, having rented the large and beautiful room in I. Haups new building, opposite the Bush House, have removed their shops, wares, &c., from Milesburg to this place. They have a large assortment of stoves of all sizes adapted to the burning of either coal or wood. They manufacture all the tin, and sheet iron ware they sell, and, therefore, warrant their work. They sell at reasonable prices and solicit a share of the public patronage. They are young men of industrious and moral habits, excellent mechanics, and in every way deserving of success. See Adv't.

WHY? We understand that a number of our citizens have raised capital stock amounting to $60,000, which they intend to carry out of this town and county for the purpose of erecting a Rolling Mill in Milton, Pa. This is carrying out the protective policy to our own town with a vengeance. Why should Milton be built up with Bellefonte money, and by Bellefonte capitalists? Echo! Answers why? Mr. Jennings & Son, are to have the Superintendency of the Milton Mill. They are both superior and practical men.

FURNITURE.—Decidedly one of the best Furniture Stores, in this town is that kept by Mr. John Brachbill, on Spring St. He has everything that any person can want of furniture kind. Parlor sets, made of the best of Walnut, can be purchased from him at from $240 to $140. His sofas, lounges, parlor chairs, cane bottomed chairs, rocking chairs, Book Cases, Bureaus, and bedroom sets, and sold by him at reasonable prices. His furniture is all of his own, and Boston manufacture. He not only recommends, but warrants it. Persons setting up house, keeping, or persons wishing either common, or first class furniture, should give him a call before purchasing elsewhere. 13-4t.

GARMAN HOUSE.—The Garman House, Danl. Garman, Proprietor, is one of the largest and best Hotels in this county. Mr. Garman sets an excellent table—always an abundance of everything, and at reasonable rates. It is truly the home of the traveller. His stable is large comfortable and clean. His hostler, the very best and always attentive. He also keeps a livery stable, good horses and buggies.

REMOVAL.—After the 1st day of April the new and splendid Drug Store of Messrs Zeller & Jarret will be found in the room now occupied by Jas. Lipton in the Brockerhoff House block.

For the, REPUBLICAN.

HOWARD, PA.

COL. W. W. BROWN: Sir:—I take the liberty of writing a few lines, in reply to that piece that was in your paper, a few week's since, about the Musical Convention, recently held in this place. It was asserted by "Pilgrim" that the committee would not admit the Preacher's little daughter unless she would first pay the small sum of "five cents." We assert that the assertion is basely and meanly false, we care not who made it, whether it was the preacher, or the little stool pigeon, or his little pet. We thought that the convention was one of the best ever held in Howard, and in this opinion we are not alone, for it was so declared by every intelligent auditor. And, as for Mr. Louth and Mrs. Comford, making splendid music for the "juveniles," poor fellow might as well have told the truth and added that it was choice music and appreciated by old and young. Poor fellow; did I say? He is a Professor, and no doubt thinks he knows it all; unfortunately like many an other self-styled Professor, he has not brains enough to contain the contents of the spelling book.

We think that the trouble comes from the fact that a certain party did not get complimentary tickets, for himself, or for some of the stool pigeon's friends, or the young student who recently came here pennyless. As for the little girl's father, we think he gets sufficient salary to pay his fare for himself and little daughter.

We think the committee was right in looking for, and saving, all the "five cts." it could get, for the reason that the little stool pigeon and the pet will run through with all the "five cents" that the committee can gather up. If it should be in no other way than in purchasing singing books for the purpose of carrying on the graduates singing.

We think that if they want to show off and put on style, it is better for them to do it with their own money and not upon the money which belongs to the church. We, here, would just call the attention of the Trustees to this point. Will they permit the money to be squandered and remain silent? We assert here that "Pilgrim," or the pet, or the stool pigeon has no right to that money. It belongs to the Trustees according to the Dicipline of the M. E. Church. The preacher is great for the Dicipline. We suggest that he had better spend a little more time in reading it. It will do him good. He can then teach his pets when they are right or wrong, whether they are acting in accordance with the Dicipline or not. We are sorry to refer to these things; but "Pilgrim" has compelled us to make these remarks.

SCHOOL BOY.

BELLEFONTE is fortunate in having a Mercantile firm like Burnside & Thomas who are now opening a Cash Jobbing House, and are going to job out goods at city prices. They are Agents for Babcocks Fire Extinguisher; Farrel & Herrings Safes; Fairbank's Scales. They offer staple goods adapted to the tastes and wants of all, and will always supply the best in the market, which is the cheapest in the end. Thankful for past favors, they now offer inducements to one and all to come and see their low prices for themselves.

TOBACCO.—Hiram Hoffer at his Tobacco store, in the Conrad House, has just received another large lot of Tobacco, Segars, Mearshaum and other Pipes, Paper Collars, &c. He keeps at all times the very best of Old Virginia Navy, Fine Cut Chewing Tobacco, and the best brands of Smoking Tobacco and Segars. Hiram says he is determined to impress the superiority of his tobacco's upon the minds of the people in such a truthful and forcible manner as to induce every person addicted to the use of the "Weed" to deal with him. 13-1t.

LEATHER.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that A. Sussman, Esq., is in the occupancy of the lower room, at the old place in Rush's Arcade, where he has just received the largest and best stock of leather ever brought to this place. Mr. Sussman has made a specialty of Leather, Seed and Trunks, which he proposes to sell at all times, cheaper than the same quality can be bought any place outside the Eastern Cities. Shoe makers and others, dealing in leather or seed should read his advertisement and give him a call.

ACADEMY NORMAL CLASS.—A class will be formed on Wednesday, April 10th, 1872 at the Bellefonte Academy, for the benefit of Teachers who may desire either to renew the branches of study usually taught in our common schools, or to pursue the more advanced branches in a higher course of study.

If there be not sufficient room in the Academy Buildings for Boarding, suitable accommodations, and at reasonable prices, will be obtained in the Town. For any further particulars address REV. J. P. HUGHES, 13-4t Bellefonte Pa.

SPRING GOODS.—Mr. Guggenheimer at the old stand near the bridge on High street, has just received a large and well selected stock of Spring Goods, Carpets, Groceries, &c., &c. Mr. Guggenheimer is well known to our people and deserves the patronage of all those who wish to spend their money to the greatest advantage to themselves and families. See advertisement.

DRINK nothing stronger than water.

"HOW TO GO WEST."—Forty years ago, Illinois was as far West as most people wished to go, and journeys were made in the legendary "Prairie Schooner," but in these days of Progress and Improvement, the word West has come to mean Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, California and the Territories, and the Traveler reaches almost any point therein by a splendid Line of Railroad.

This Line of Railroad is the Burlington Route, which starts from Chicago over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R., from Indianapolis over the Indianapolis, Bloomington & Wester Short Line, and from Logansport, over the Toledo, Peoria & Warsaw R. R., and running through BURLINGTON, reaches Omaha, Lincoln, Nebraska City, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth and Kansas City, connecting with the Union Pacific, Kansas, Pacific and other Railroads running from those cities.

Always go "By way of Burlington," and you will be sure to be right,

The Burlington Route has admirably answered the question, "How to go West?" by the publication of a truthful and interesing document, filled with facts in regard to Time, Connections, Accommodations, rates of Fare and other interesting items, and illustrated by a large map, truthfully showing the whole West, which they distribute free of charge. Copies, and additional information, can be obtained by addressing, General Passenger Agent, B. & M. R. R., Burlington, Iowa. 4-3-3m.

A MYSTERY.—I that rustic path was treading, when the sun its rays was shending, beaming, gleaming, fairly streaming through the trees; and I watched the streamlet glistening, as entranced I there was listening to the melting, merry music on the breeze, when beneath a tree reclining, where no ray of sun was shining, lo! I saw a fellow-being on the ground! Though no other feature shifted, quickly soon his eyes uplifted—upward lifted as he wildly looked around. "Good friend," said I, approaching, "do not charge me with encroaching—are you waiting for some messenger of news!" But no other word he uttered, and no other, sentence muttered, save "You'll find none like Powers's for bully boots and shoes!"

"That's a strange expression, surely!" said I, looking down demurely. "I trust, good sir, that you the question will excuse."

But he only looked the prouder as he spoke the words the louder, "There's always perfect comfort in Powers's boots and shoes."

"Why, bless me, man!" I shouted, as his sanity I doubted, "'Tis surely naught to me what peoples goods you use."

But he only cried the higher with enthusiastic ire, You'll save your cash by wearing only Powers' boots and shoes!"

Thus I left him their reclining, where no ray of sun was shining, and frequently I wondered at the words the man did use; thinking surely 'twas a mystery, and that some hidden history was weaving round myself and Powers' boots and shoes. So then I resolved to buy them; nay, I felt compelled to try them. And—Behold! I have cause for gladness, that the words I deemed were madness, induced me thus to purchase Powers' matchless boots and shoes

E. BEARLY.

NEW TOBACCO STORE.—We are authorized to say that Ed. Fortney in his New Tobacco Store, in "Our House," corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets has made up his mind to furnish all who may favor him with their custom, the very best brands of Chewing and Smoking Tobacco; also with Segars, Snuff, Pipes of all kinds, Paper Collars, &c., at prices which will defy competition. Mr. Fortney is a clever, energetic young man, and prides himself in being able to fulfill all his promises. 13-1t

To the Citizens of Centre County and Elsewhere.

Your attention is particularly requested to the following certificate referring to those old established remedies, "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS", and "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC," from that well known citizen,

IRA C. MITCHELL, ESQ.:

"BELLEFONTE, PA., OCT. 27, 187

Sir:—I have just had the pleasure of meeting your Agent, the first representative of "Hoofland's German Bitters" and "Hoofland's German Tonic," it has ever been my good fortune to meet. For many year I have been purchasing and using them to the great comfort of myself, family and friends, having commenced their use on the recommendations of the Supreme Court Judges of this State. It affords me pleasure to have the opportunity to voluntarily recommend the same to all of my friends and acquaintances who may be suffering from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Billiousness or affections of the Liver, of any kind.

Very Respectfully,

IRA C. MITHELL."

These medicines are and have been well known to the community for the last twenty-five years, as genuine, reliable and deserving remedies for the diseases mentioned in the above certificate. Those afflicted should not fail to use them. Sold by all Druggists. C. M. EVANS, Proprietor, 631, Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 3-50-1y

MARRIED.

On the 13th inst., by Rev. Robert Hamill, Mr. Rudolph Gahagin, of Harris twp., and Miss Sallie Nail, of Pleasant Gap.

DIED.

On the 7th inst., at Cleveland, Ohio, of Puerperal Fever, Mrs. Etta E. wife of Levi Maull, in the 27th year of her age.

Mrs. Maull was a sister of Mrs. Dr. J. K. Holloway, and was well known in some parts of Centre county. She was thoroughly educated and highly esteemed by all who knew her. Her life was that of a true and devoted christian—her last moments were bright.

On the 13th inst., in Huston twp., Mr. William Kline, aged 64 years.

Mr. Kline was well and favorably known in this community, was a consistant member of the Presbyterian Church a kind and affectionate husband and father, a good and useful citizen and is mourned by all who knew him.

LOCUST.

On Sunday, the 17th inst., Mrs. Catharine Teats, wife of Philip Teats, of Hublersburg, this county, aged 30 years, 2 months and 2 days.

The last words of Mrs. Teats were, "My home is in Heaven—meet me there." She was an earnest christian woman, and a ardent worker for God. She will be greatly missed in the circle she was wont to frequent, but her friends can truly say of her, "Our loss is her gain."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A CARD.—We take this method of saying that there is no truth in the reports that have been circulated, "that we intend quitting the coal business as soon as our present supply is sold out." On the contrary we have on hands now and intend to keep on hand a well selected stock of the best Anthracite coal in the market.

DEAD MEN TELL NO TALES; if they did, anathemas against the depleting lancet, the drastic purge, and the terrible sanvants of the materia medica, would arise from every graveyard. The motto of modern medical science is "Preserve and Regulate, not destroy," and no remedy of our day is so entirely in harmony with this philanthropic logic as DR. WALKER'S VEGETABLE VINEGAR BITTERS. In this powerful yet harmless restorative, dyspepsia, bilious complaints, and all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and nerves, encounter an irresistible antidote. 16-4t
